Editors Protest Roosevelt Policy Of Curb on Press

Object To Barring of Newspapermen from Food Conference

Declare President Challenges Rights of American People

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—Roy A. Roberts, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said tonight that a majority of the society's board of directors, meeting here, had protested President Roosevelt's "declared policy" of barring newspapermen from the forthcoming United Nations Food Conference.

"President Roosevelt's declared policy denies reasonable access to original sources of information and progress of the forthcoming United Nations Food Conference," said a statement issued by Roberts and other members of the board. "Without adequate information, sound public opinion cannot be formed."

Defends Rights of People

"The president's policy challenges the right of the American people to receive public information free of governmental restrictions or control. A pattern is being established which, if continued, will stifle the right of free inquiry and prevent continuous flow of full information to the public. The government should not use voluntary censorship to serve its convenience and interest. We should strongly hold to the principle that in the United States the people have a right to participate in public decisions."

"The government should not withhold or restrict information on the food conference. Newspapers are discouraged from exercising ordinary diligence in informing the public of the progress of these discussions, on the pretext that free inquiry might embarrass proceedings."

See Dangerous Precedent

"Physical access to delegates is being restricted. Military information is not involved. Press and public gladly withhold information that aid the enemy. Dangerous precedents are being established which will hide in a cloud of public misunderstanding and doubt the solution of international problems, raising

Japanese Burma Positions Bombed

NEW DELHI, April 18 (AP)—American and British bombers made widespread attacks upon the Japanese in Burma yesterday, whittling away chiefly at rail communications, which land fighting in the Arakan sector between Akyab and India remained quiet, communiqué said today.

Medium bombers of the Tenth U. S. air force "achieved excellent results" against rail installations at Myittha, American headquarters results" against rail installations at Myittha, American headquarters reported. Direct hits landed on a railroad bridge and its southern approaches and railway sheds were destroyed by oil fires.

Another bridge at Namti and another span at Kamnang were damaged. P-40 fighters attacked Japanese anti-aircraft batteries in northwest Burma and set two large fires with light bombs and machine-guns at Nanyaseik.

Republicans Expected To Refuse Compromise on Pay-Go Tax Plans

By FRANK M. LE MAY
WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Republicans were reported by a usually reliable source today to have taken the position that they would agree to no compromise on pay-as-you-go taxation that did not abate at least one-half of one year's tax obligations for America's 44,000,000 income taxpayers.

A Sunday meeting of Democratic and Republican leaders in the taxation field, however, brought renewed prophecies the two parties, recently in conflict over the Ruml ship-a-tax-year plan, would agree on a compromise current taxation bill and bring it to a vote in the House, probably this week.

Prior to the beginning last week of the bi-partisan conference, the Republicans stood rigidly by the modified Ruml Plan to by-pass a complete tax year, with precautions against wartime "windfalls," and a bloc of Democrats were warned against any tax abatement. As the two-hour Sunday session

NON-DEFERABLE DRAFT LISTS NOT LIKELY TO BE INCREASED

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Additions to the non-deferable draft list are not likely because of the speed with which able-bodied men aged 18 to 38 are being siphoned off by the ordinary operation of the draft, informed sources said tonight.

10,000-Ton Jap Ship Bombed in Kavieng Harbor

Enemy Port in New Ireland Raided by Allied Fliers

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Monday, April 19 (AP)—A 10,000-ton Japanese ship has been bombed in Kavieng harbor, New Ireland, the Allied high command reported today.

The noon communiqué reported also that a Japanese twin-engine fighter had been shot down over Vitiaz straits above the Huon peninsula of New Guinea.

The attack on Kavieng harbor was made by a heavy reconnaissance plane. Results of the bombing was not observed but the plane drove off two enemy fighters which attempted interception.

A night attack was made by Allied medium bombers on the airfield at Cape Gloucester, the western tip of New Britain island.

Allied bombers were busy throughout the theater of operations extending from New Ireland in the northeast to the Aro Islands in the southwest.

Medium units attacked the town of Maikoor in the Aro islands 500 miles north of Darwin, and Penfoel airfield at Koepong, Dutch Timor. Fires were started at the airfield. In New Guinea, heavy bombers bombed and strafed the villages of Gumbi and Billau. The town of Finschhafen and the airfield there both were hammered by heavy and medium bombers.

Americans Down Five Jap Planes In the Solomons

Navy Announces Destruction of Two Bombers and Three Fighters

By HAMILTON W. FARON

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Battling in the skies over a Japanese base, American fliers sent five enemy planes—two of them bombers—plummeting to the ground, in an apparent effort to keep Japanese air strength earthbound in the Solomons.

The victory for American Lightning fighters was over Kahili, Japanese base on Bougainville Island. A flight of P-38 fighters, the navy reported in a communiqué today, engaged two enemy bombers and their six Zero fighter escorts. The action occurred Sunday, Solomons time.

Both bombers and three of the Zeros were shot down. Then the Lightnings, continuing their flight over enemy territory, met and engaged another Japanese bomber. It, too, was knocked down.

One United States fighter plane, the navy reported, was missing after the two aerial engagements, fought after a light raid by Japanese planes on Henderson airfield on Guadalcanal Island.

In the Henderson field attack, two Japanese planes caused what the navy described as "minor damage" to material, and inflicted "light casualties" on personnel.

Barking an answer to the raiding plane, American anti-aircraft weapons sent up a heavy screen of ack-ack, and the navy said, one of the two raiders was believed to have been shot down.

The intensification of aerial warfare in the Solomons Islands also took American bombers and fighters out to attack the Japanese base at Kahili and to bomb shipping at Ballale, in the Shortland Island area.

Results of the raid on Kahili were not observed, but, at Ballale, bombs and torpedoes were believed to have damaged a Japanese tanker and a cargo ship.

In the North Pacific, army Liberator bombers joined with Mitchell medium bombers and Lightning and Warhawk fighter planes to carry out another ten more attacks (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

McKeller To Press For Action To Curb Roosevelt's Power

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Senator McKeller said today he will call for a vote this week on his bill giving the Senate confirmation power over some 30,000 federal job holders who receive more than $4,500 a year or who would mold national policies.

"I want to call this up as soon as possible," the Tennessee Democrat said. "I think it has an excellent chance of passage in the Senate as I know of very few who are against it."

A majority of the judiciary committee approved the bill last week despite President Roosevelt's earlier criticism of the legislation as "a tragic mistake" likely to "turn the clock back" on the merit system. Senator Hatch (D-NM) fought the bill in committee and was expected to file a minority report, but he was away from Washington last week and had not done so tonight.

Bonds for Bombs To Be American Gift for Hitler on His Birthday

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Eclipse shadows the figure of Adolf Hitler as the German dictator approaches his fifty-fourth birthday Tuesday.

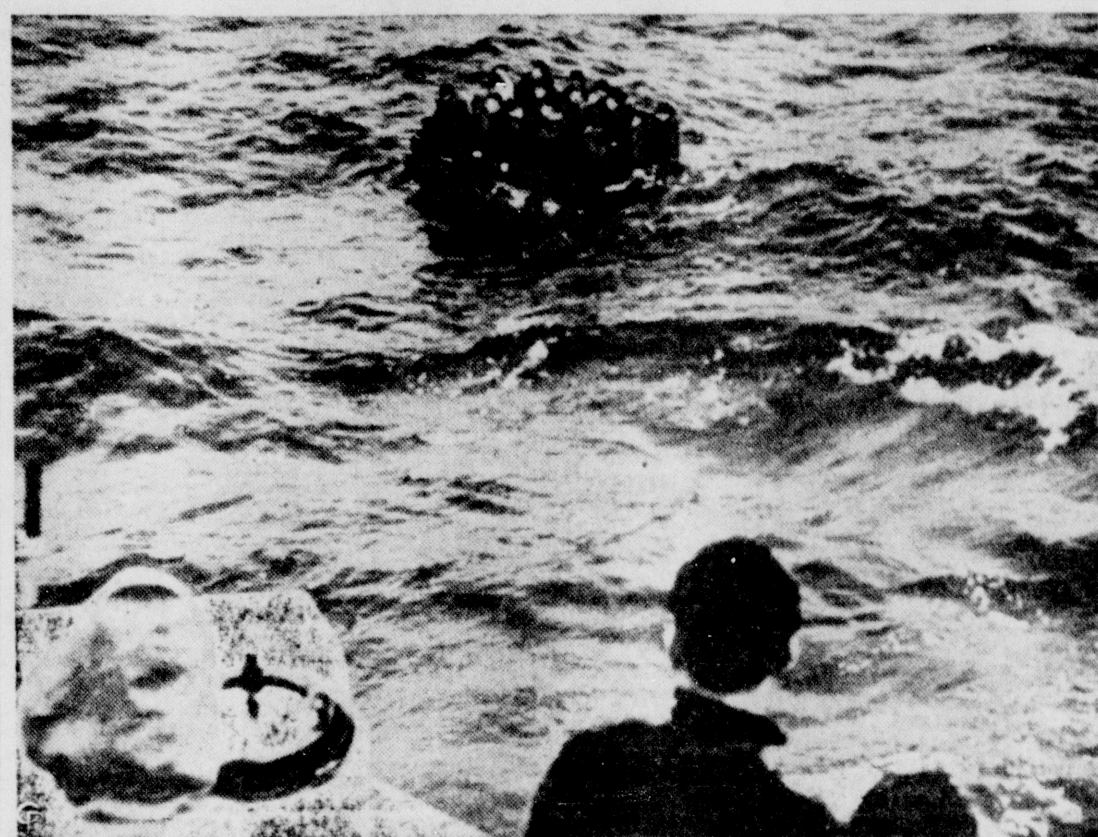

The German broadcast says he's slated to make another speech on that day, to announce a "European charter," but meanwhile the German propaganda ministry has deleted the term "supreme commander of the armed forces" from references to his name.

In this country, it has been suggested that Americans make a special effort to buy war savings bonds on his birthday as part of the treasury's second war loan.

He won't like this, but there's a heap of things these days which probably don't please him.

On his fifty-fourth birthday, Adolf Hitler can assess the last ten years of his life. If his famous invasion doesn't tell him he's on his way down, maybe these facts will: Conquered Europe, which he went to so much trouble to liberate from the "decadent democracies," has a first class case of jitters about an

Russians Beat Off Nazi Attack In the Caucasus

Kill 1,400 Germans for Three-Day Toll of 6,200 Men

LONDON, Monday, April 19 (AP)—Russian troops beat off seven German counter-attacks in the northwestern Caucasus yesterday and killed 1,400 of the enemy to boost the Nazi death toll to 6,200 in three days, Moscow announced early today.

The seven German counter-attacks were launched in an effort to regain an important height seized by the Russians several days ago when they renewed their attempt to oust the Germans from their foothold at Novorossiisk and on the Taman peninsula opposite the Crimea, the midnight communiqué said.

The Germans also attacked the menacing Soviet forces in another sector of the Caucasian front, said the bulletin, recorded by the Soviet Monitor. But although two infantry regiments supported "by big forces of aircraft" were hurled into the Red army stood its ground and inflicted heavy losses on the invaders, the communiqué said.

Increased aerial activity was general along the Russian front, and the Russians declared their air force had the upper hand both in combat and in the renewed long-range raids on East Prussian ports and German air fields.

In the week ending Saturday the Russians said their airmen destroyed 302 German planes compared to 103 Soviet aircraft lost, and during yesterday's operations destroyed twenty-five in the Caucasus and eight on the approaches to Leningrad in the north.

Russian smashes at German airbases also destroyed or damaged thirty more enemy planes, the communiqué said.

Lieutenant Takes Over Bomb Sight Of Late Brother

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—Second Lieut. Rhude M. Mathis, 24, of San Angelo, Tex., took over the bomb sight of the Flying Fortress "Duchess" during the Allied raid on Bremen Saturday—the same bomb sight his 20-year-old brother Jack used in the same plane for his last job of bombing in the attack on Gesack, March 18.

The story of Jack who, mortally wounded, crawled to his right and pulled the switch over the target, is one of the war's classic examples of devotion to duty.

Jack Mathis directed, with the placement of his bomb load, the marksmanship of nearly a score of other bombardiers.

Rhude was just graduated from bombardiers' school a month ago when he saw Jack's body lifted from the Fortress. He requested and was granted permission to fly in the same seat his brother had used.

"It sure makes me feel good to follow up the job Jack started," said Rhude.

"It makes me mad, though, for every time I look at that bomb sight I see the hole made by the bullet that hit Jack."

NAZI CONVOY OF 15 SHIPS ATTACKED OFF DUTCH COAST

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—British Beaufighters of the coastal command, escorted by RAF Spitfires, attacked an enemy convoy of fifteen ships off the Dutch coast today, scoring hits on several of the vessels and leaving the largest one blazing and listing.

While the Spitfires watched for enemy aircraft, the leading Beaufighters raked the ships with gunfire. Then a fresh wave plunged in with torpedoes.

The air ministry said the largest ship, a medium-sized merchant vessel, was struck by two torpedoes. Returning pilots said other ships "certainly" were torpedoed.

Sees Big Ship Hit

"It was like having a ringside seat at a world championship fight," said Wing Commander Howard P. Blatchford, who led the attack. "I saw eight tin fish hit the water and all looked as if they couldn't miss. The biggest ship was hit slap amidships. A shower of water and junk shot up in the air. The ship listed to port and seemed certain to sink."

Ventura bombers escorted by fighters attacked the docks at Dieppe this afternoon, sustaining the Allied non-stop aerial offensive in which RAF fighters and fighter-bombers shot up railways and power stations in northwest Germany, France and Holland last night.

Dieppe is the French coastal town where Allied forces, predominantly Canadian, staged a full scale Commando raid last year.

Germans over London

A single German raider flying over one of the home counties gave London a short alert about 10:30 p. m., the second of the day and the second after-dark alarm in three nights. Gunfire was heard but the all-clear followed within a few minutes.

The ministry of home security said no attempts to attack Britain were made during the day.

Although the RAF's heavy bombers were grounded, its swift mosquito bombers reached deep into Germany to attack several trains, damaging at least three, while other planes shot-up and bombed freight trains in France and the low countries (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Consumer Rationing of Liquor Inevitable, Association Asserts

DETROIT, April 18 (AP)—National consumer rationing of liquor is inevitable within the next few months, officials of the National Alcoholic Beverage Control Association said here today on the eve of their semi-annual convention.

M. L. Curtis of Des Moines, president of the association, and John H. Law of Chicago, executive secretary of the commission, warned of impending consumer rationing.

"That doesn't mean rationing by the Office of Price Administration," Law said. "Liquor certainly is not an essential commodity, like meat and butter and shoes."

Supplies Limited

"But liquor dealers in every state now realize that their supplies are drastically limited for the duration—without hope of a resumption in the manufacture for the duration of the war."

"In some sections, where the state does not control the sales, dealers had excess stocks and they gave the impression that there was plenty

Air Battles Mark War of Attrition In Mediterranean

Thirty-eight German Planes Destroyed by RAF and Americans

Ground Forces Preparing for Assault on Tunis and Bizerte

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 18 (AP)—Six more ships have been sunk or damaged and thirty-eight Axis planes destroyed in the ceaseless war of attrition in the Mediterranean area, Allied headquarters announced today, while Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's ground forces got set for the assault on the mountain-rimmed defenses of Tunis and Bizerte.

Although the Italian communiqué received here in broadcasts said "intense and prolonged artillery duels" were taking place, with massed guns sweeping the heights and defiles, the Allied communiqué mentioned only patrol activity along the 140-mile front.

A French headquarters announced operations continued in the mountain region south of Pont Du Fahs and seventy prisoners were captured in local engagements.

American Flying Fortresses and the Royal navy combined in an attack on Marshal Erwin Rommel's sea lanes, with the navy's motor torpedo boats and torpedo planes shooting tin fish into two ships of an Axis convoy in the Gulf of Tunis, right at the front door of Tunis, sinking at least one of the vessels.

Hit Four More Ships

The Flying Fortresses scored direct hits on four more ships in Palermo harbor, across the Sicilian straits, and knocked down seventeen German planes in a battle royal.

The intense pace of Allied air activity by day and night hit the Axis' African breadbasket from all sides and included an assault by the RAF on Bizerte naval base, a Flying Fortress raid on Ferryville's docks on Bizerte lake, a further shattering of Sicilian ports, new knock-out blows at the enemy's limit number of airfields, and ceaseless patrols along his roads and defense positions.

The best the German air force was able to do was to strike at Algiers in a brief night raid during which a bomb fell on a convent some distance from the harbor and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Panic Purchasing Increasing Sales

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—The Commerce department reported today that February retail sales reached a record figure in excess of $4,500,000,000, "led by near panic buying" of clothing, and commented:

"Since supplies of consumer goods are already dwindling, it is pointed out that the effect of such a high level of sales is to bring nearer the date on which additional action to restrict consumption may have to be taken."

In its monthly survey of current business, the department said that retail trade, following a heavy buying wave in February, returned to "more normal levels" in March, but remained above the corresponding period for 1942.

All States Equal

"Distillers are treating all states on an equal basis," he declared. "As representatives of monopoly states we have made it our business to ascertain this. We conducted a thorough survey which showed there is no discrimination."

Law added that distillers have allotted extra supplies to places like Detroit which have experienced large population increases since the start of the war.

International Police Force Plan Opposed

Thirty-Two Senators Not in Favor of Post-War Proposals

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP) — Thirty-two senators oppose committing the United States at this time to post-war participation in an international police force to preserve the peace.

Twenty-four senators, one fourth of the Senate, favor such commitments.

Thirty-two additional senators have not reached either a definite "yes" or "no" decision on the question. This group, together with eight senators who could not be reached in an Associated Press poll completed today, apparently will decide this important issue.

Associated Press Question

To determine sentiment, the Associated Press asked this question: "Do you favor committing the Senate and country now to a post-war course of preserving the peace through an international police force?"

Answers of the thirty-two in opposition ranged from a flat "no" by the veteran "irreconcilable," Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, to the assertion by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that it would be "as easy for an international police force to bomb New York as Berlin." Many of these, however, indicated their willingness to consider international collaboration at a later date. They said it is too early to make commitments.

The 24-favorable responses varied from the brief "yes" of Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) to a declaration by Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) that he is willing to go far beyond the action implied in the question — to the point of dismantling Axis factories after the war and embargoing materials which they could use to make munitions.

The question was selected in an attempt to obtain from the Senate, which must approve all treaties by a two-thirds vote before they can become effective, a cross-section viewpoint on what appears to be the central theme of a half dozen resolutions now pending before its foreign relations committee—the proposal to have the Senate go on record now for postwar international collaboration for forceful preservation of the peace.

Some Make Reservations

Some senators who favored immediate commitments of this nature did so with reservations, as did some of those opposed. Where they indicated clearly their endorsement of the principle of immediate action to put the Senate and country on record for a course of this general nature, they were recorded as favorable and, contrarily, as opposed.

The following senators were not reached for comment: Andrews (D-Fla.), Bilbo (D-Miss.), Buck (R-Dele.), Caraway (D-Ark.), Clark (D-Mo.), Glass (D-Va.), Scruggs (D-Neu.), Tobey (R-NH) (8).

The breakdown on the poll follows:

Favorable
Democrats — Bailey, Bankhead, Bone, Connally, Downey, Guffey, Hatch, Hill, Kilgore, Lucas, Maybank, Murray, McClellan, Mead, O'Mahoney, Pepper, Thomas (Utah), Truman, Wagner (19).
Republicans — Austin, Ball, Burton, Davis, Ferguson (5).

Opposed
Democrats — Chavez, Clark (Idaho), Johnson (Colo.), McGarran, McKellar, Murdock, O'Daniel, Overton, Radcliffe, Reynolds, Smith, Tamm, Van Nuys, Wallgren, Wheeler (15).

Republicans — Bushfield, Butler, Capper, Gurney, Hawkes, Holman, Johnson (Calif.), Langer, Moore, Nye, Revercomb, Robertson, Shipstead, Taft, Wherry, Willis (16).

Progressive-LaFollette (1).
Those who declined to commit themselves:
Democrats — Barkley, Byrd, Chandler, Eastland, Ellender, George, Gerry, Gillette, Green, Hayden, Malone, McFarland, Russell, Stewart, Thomas (Okla.), Tydings, Walsh (17).

Republicans — Aiken, Barbour, Brewster, Bridges, Brooks, Danaher, Lodge, McNary, Millikin, Reed, Thomas (Idaho), Vandenberg, White, Wiley, Wilson (15).

Penetrator Destroyer Screen
Royal navy motor torpedo boats, sighting a convoy in the Gulf of Tunis Friday night, penetrated a destroyer screen in another of the almost nightly forays by Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham's sea forces and sank one of the merchantmen.

The fleet's dive-bombers and torpedo planes then attacked in the light of flares and scored a direct hit on a tanker with a torpedo which sent up spouts of water.

The coming daylight saw flying Fortresses attack the harbor at Ferryville, where parts of the docks were blown to bits, and Palermo where three merchant ships, a tanker and a floating dry dock were blasted.

The lightning escort went back over the straits later in the day and shot down a twin-engine Junkers 88 and four other Axis aircraft.

Altogether Northwest African air force sweeps accounted for eleven enemy aircraft in combats over the battle lines yesterday.

CIO Opposes Move To Bring Many More War Workers to Baltimore

BALTIMORE, April 18 (AP)—The Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council (CIO) took a stand today against the reported plans of the War Manpower Commission to bring "thousands of workers" into the Baltimore area this year.

Containing there was no room for large numbers of persons from outside the area and that they were not needed because necessary labor, "if properly utilized," was already in Baltimore, the council, at its quarterly meeting, made four recommendations to the WMC:

- 1.—That the WMC institute labor utilization studies in all war plants to see if manpower was being used effectively as possible. (The council said there were more persons in some of the plants than were being used.)
- 2.—That the WMC take steps to compel war plants to use women workers and negroes where present policies are against their use.
- 3.—That the WMC help "create proper working conditions" so more local residents would take and keep war jobs. (Day care for children, improved housing and transportation were mentioned particularly.)
- 4.—That the WMC compel compliance with the 48-hour week wherever possible.

The group voted full support to the price section of President Roosevelt's recent executive order freezing wages and prices, but recommended the war labor board be given authority to adjust wage scales "where gross inequalities impede production."

Ulisse Dedominicis, chairman of the joint war board of the Baltimore Shipbuilding and Repairing Co., said:

Murray Announces CIO Support of Miners' Demands

President of Union Asks Portal-to-Portal Wage Scale

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 18 (AP)—Phillip Murray, president of the CIO, announced the support of his organization today to the fight of the United Mine Workers of America for pay on a portal-to-portal basis.

Murray, addressing a mass meeting here, said his union had been on record as favoring a portal-to-portal basis for all workers underground for more than two years and held this view for all workers, "whether in the metal or coal mines."

Ask Change in Contract

The UMWA, now out of the CIO ranks, is asking pay for the entire time spent underground in negotiations now in progress for a wage contract. Previous contracts have provided pay only for the time spent at working faces inside the mines, and have not allowed pay for the time spent going to and from work inside the mines.

Murray reviewed the fight of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO), in Birmingham for pay on a portal-to-portal basis. The case, filed originally in January, 1941, was against the Tennessee coal, Iron and Railroad Co., U. S. Steel subsidiary, and was won by the union in federal district court here and before the U. S. Circuit court at New Orleans. The company has filed a petition for rehearing at New Orleans.

"It was the CIO which estimated the principle of pay on a portal-to-portal basis, in the suit filed here in Birmingham," Murray said, "and we want this same precedent to apply to all underground workers, whether iron ore or bituminous or anthracite coal miners."

Murray Repeats Warning

The CIO president repeated his warning against "permitting any man to get rich out of this war," first made yesterday in an address before southeastern members of the United Steelworkers of America here.

Murray asserted the bulk of the money spent by the government for war plants and plant expansion has been "concentrated in the great industrial centers of population," and that the small business men had been, in many cases, "forced to the wall."

After the war, he said, government should "see to it that the small business man, the life pulse of the small community and therefore of the nation, have a chance to return to business."

He also urged that labor unions prepare to play an important role in post-war planning and acquire a full understanding of "the economic phases of life of the average American."

Murray will go next to Houston, Tex., in his series of meetings with United Steelworkers representatives.

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP) — One Tokyo newspaper marked the anniversary of the American raid on Tokyo with a reproduction of a lurid painting of New York city being bombed by "a fleet of Japanese bombers," sending a skyscraper toppling into the streets, a Japanese broadcast heard by CBS said tonight.

"The newspaper, Yomiuri Hochi's Sunday edition," the broadcast said, "reproduced a sensational painting by Mr. Kokong Kojo, the famous painter, which depicts New York as thick with a fleet of Japanese bombers, the rising sun insignia glittering on their silvery wings, as they dive and bank around the towering skyscrapers of Manhattan and the streets below are buried in chaos as tons of steel and masonry crash down from one of the great skyscrapers."

"All of this is depicted in the imaginary scene of Mr. Kokong Kojo. His painting is entitled: 'Heaven-sent wings over the enemy city.' The picture measuring seven by eight feet was recently completed."

"Appropriately enough," the Tokyo broadcast added, Kokong Kojo "won recognition as a painter of world renown at the exhibition held 10 years ago on the thirty-first floor of the Empire State building in New York city."

Attempt To Kill French Communist

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—The German-controlled Toulouse radio said tonight that a second attempt had been made to kill Jean Ciamamus, former French Communist senator who became an Axis collaborator.

The broadcast, reported by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, said three men sitting in a parked car fired several shots which missed Ciamamus, now mayor of Bobigny, a Paris suburb. The assailants escaped. The date of the attempt was not given.

Hence, an expansion order that came out today would not take effect before mid-June. It would mean little if the ban on drafting fathers had been or was about to be incidentally.

Incidentally, it's particularly unlikely that issuance of a non-deferable expansion order will even be considered before the Senate takes action on the House-approved Kilday bill, which would eliminate all non-deferable lists as well as insure that fathers are the last called for induction.

Nicholas Horthy And Hitler Hold War Conference

Seek To Build Fences against Expected Invasion

By LEWIS HAWKINS

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, has concluded a two-day visit to Adolf Hitler at the German dictator's headquarters and British quarts interpreted the conference tonight as a continued Nazi effort to build military and political fences against a possible Allied invasion of the Balkans.

It was the fourth recent conference of its kind. King Boris of Bulgaria was summoned before the fuhrer. A four-day conference of Hitler and Mussolini last week was followed by a pilgrimage of the Rumanian dictator, Marshal Ion Antonescu, to Germany and Rome. British circles said the obvious propaganda aim of all the meetings was to create an impression of solidarity and unity of purpose within the Axis.

The Berlin radio, which announced the Horthy-Hitler meeting, said the Hungarian regent returned to Budapest today after making the trip at Hitler's request.

It is presumed that Hitler increased his military demands on Hungary, despite rumors of recalcitrance from the Axis satellite. Reports from Budapest recently have told of the Hungarians withdrawing troops from Russia and laborers from Germany.

British informants speculated that Hitler probably warned Horthy that Hungary could not keep territories it was awarded from Czechoslovakia and Rumania unless the country stood firmly with the Axis.

Troops To Sing Hymns at Meade

Thousands Will Participate in Easter Sunday Program

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., April 18 (AP)—Thousands of soldiers' voices will combine in the singing of Easter hymns at a sunrise service to be held at Fort George G. Meade next Sunday.

The service will be broadcast (NBC) over a national hookup. Lieut. Col. Frederick C. Reynolds, post chaplain, will officiate at the interdenominational services. He will be assisted by the chaplains of several Meade units.

The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, is scheduled to deliver the sermon.

Massey post bands will accompany the soldiers as they sing the hymns of the Easter season.

Assembly of the troops and massing of colors will be highlights of the ceremonies, which will start at 7 a. m.

Maj. Gen. William R. Schmidt, commanding general of a division stationed at the post, has ordered all soldiers who wish to attend the services relieved of special details they would ordinarily have at the time.

Battle for Tunis And Bizerte Seen As Test for Nazis

Will Provide Preview of What Can Be Expected on the Continent

By CARL C. CRAMER

The battle impending on the Cathaginian peninsula for Tunis and Bizerte may well be a preview of other battles that must be fought on the European continent before Rome and Berlin are brought to unconditional surrender.

The North African battleground which has served as a bloody laboratory for development of Allied technique in mobile tank warfare and in aerial co-operation with troops may be the fieriest test tube of British and American methods in yet a third phase—the scientific attack on modern systems of fixed fortifications under conditions of siege.

Orders from Hitler

All the indications are that Adolf Hitler has ordered his forces in Tunisia to emulate the Sixth army at Stalingrad and, if possible, to equal the performances of Allied forces in such areas as Leningrad and Tobruk.

If the Allies are successful in blasting open and capturing this brilliant bridgehead with comparatively small casualties the result will be far more decisive than appears on the surface.

It would pretty well demolish Hitler's last dream—a successful defense of the fortress of Europe and its system of forts within a fort.

At this time the chances are very good that the Allies will win in Tunisia their greatest victory of the war next to Stalingrad and will capture or otherwise eliminate close to 200,000 German and Italian troops.

What Will Victory Cost?

But if the victory is at high cost it will raise the question as to whether United Nations manpower is equal to the drain of a succession of sieges all the way from the beaches of Dieppe or Marseille to the heart of Hitlerland.

Except for the British Eighth army, which successfully attacked strong lines of field fortifications at El Alamein and El Achela and a stronger system of pre-war forts and defenses at Mareth, the Western Allies have had practically no experience against modern belts of prepared defense.

The Germans, on the other hand, have learned the strengths and weaknesses of all the systems of defense evolved by European military science.

Nazis Know How

The can be relied upon to put these lessons to use and to try new methods of their own in preparing their defenses.

It remains to be seen what plans the Allies have thought up to reduce steel and concrete forts and bunkers, protected by belts of mines, barbed wire, trenches, tank traps and other obstructions.

The war may be entering a new phase with the impending battle in the hills of Northern Tunisia—the phase of the engineer, the flame-thrower, the dynamite thrower, the heavy siege gun. Already the Allies seem in need of new methods of dealing swiftly with mine fields. It remains to be seen whether the Allies, in their feverish production of tanks and planes, have overlooked the necessary quantities and types of heavy artillery.

anthracite coal contract conference will reconvene.

Major demands of the mine workers, headed by President John L. Lewis, for the 450,000 soft coal miners include a basic $2 daily increase, an $8 minimum for coal field workers, portal-to-portal pay and unionization of minor bosses.

Lewis claimed yesterday in a general press conference which followed the northern conference that "because there is a conspiracy on the part of large financial interests and national politicians to prevent a settlement on the basis of fact and merit." The charge was denied by Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the northern operators.

Dr. Steelman said he would report the charges to the government. Belief that Steelman would ask certification of the southern dispute, at least, to the war labor board, was expressed yesterday by Edward R. Burke, president of the Southern Coal Producers' Association.

tries, it was reported. Three fighters were lost over occupied territory. Upsetting train schedules over a wide area in Germany. Mosquitoes struck near Celle on the Hannover-Hamburg route, at Neustadt on the Berlin-Hamburg line and near Sulingen, south of Bremen. Light bombers of the army co-operation command hit four railway power stations between Paris and Le Mans. A whirlbomber blew a locomotive from the track near Ostend.

The German high command communique, broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press, said twenty American bombers were shot down in yesterday's big raid on the Pocke-Wulf airplane factory at Bremen. A United States communique last night said sixteen four-engine craft were missing from the raid, but that more than fifty German fighters were destroyed.

Structure of Human Body and How It Functions Are Explained by Doctor

About ten years ago I went into a book store in Munich where I found a book by Fritz Kahn which was a description of human structure and function, and in some ways the most remarkable popular explanation of the human body that I have ever seen. I bought a copy and brought it back to my publisher, Mr. Alfred A. Knopf, and recommended it very strongly for publication in English. He commissioned Mr. Kahn to rewrite it and bring it down to date and it now appears called "Man in Structure and Function," translated from the German by George Rosen, M. D.

and published in two very handsome volumes. The author is a genius at being able to anticipate what the average person wants to know about his body and at being able to explain it: The illustrations, which he did himself, show an imaginative quality which both stimulates inquiry and stirs the imagination. Every section of bodily activity is covered, beginning with the bones and muscles and going through the circulation of the blood, the action of the blood and of the breathing apparatus, of digestion, of food, nutrition, vitamins, diet, stimulants, clothing, the kidneys, the nervous system, the skin and reproductive system. There are altogether 461 illustrations, every one of which is a lesson in itself.

Scientific Illustrations

The illustrations are not like those in the old-time physiologies which are described in the immortal words of my friend, H. L. Mencken, the eminent exegist of Baltimore, as showing "all the abdomen south of the umbilicus as a smooth and quite uneventful surface." They are, however, so coldly scientific that no offense could possibly be taken. In the preface Dr. Kahn says: "The human biology of 1943 is not the anatomy of 1880, which began with the statement: "The human body consists of a head, a trunk and limbs; it is not the biology of 1900 starting off with the assertion: 'The cell is a small mass of protoplasm with a nucleus in the center'; it is not synonymous with the diet book filled with tables of caloric values and protein contents—the human biology of 1943 is the study of man as the centre of the world, of an entirely new, completely unimagined world which has been disclosed to us during the past few decades, by the discoveries of modern science, and with the recognition of which there begins a new era in the study of man and the shaping and organization of human life."

Inasmuch as I am personally partly responsible for this publication, I have no hesitation in recommending it very warmly. Not only should it be in every school and high school in the land, but I would be of the opinion that a good many medical students, and even doctors, would get a good deal out of it that they do not already know.

STAR IN "SLIGHTLY DANGEROUS"

AT LAST LANA TURNER together with Robert Young in an M-G-M picture, "Slightly Dangerous," starting Thursday at the Maryland theatre. They are teamed in a fast-moving comedy which has Lana an amnesia victim by her own choice and enjoying it, particularly the chase by Robert Young, who has to redeem himself back home. The various twists given to the plot make it unusually funny. And before it is over, Lana and Bob do the very thing you would expect. Uh-huh! Pose for this picture.

Tantalizing Mystery

Playing at Liberty
Playless performances, a tantalizing mystery story, expert direction and a super-abundance of solid dramatic thrills have been blended in Universal's "Sherlock Holmes in Washington," which came yesterday to the screen of the Liberty theatre. The versatile Basil Rathbone impersonates Sherlock and Nigel Bruce gives an incomparable portrayal of Doctor Watson, the great sleuth's comrade.

A supporting cast, deserving superlative mention, includes Marjorie Lord, John Archer and Don Terry. Additional imposing names in the line-up are George Zucco, Henry Daniell and Edmund MacDonald. All of them are outstanding in their respective roles.

Ginger Rogers Stars

In Comedy at Garden
Ginger Rogers and Ray Milland are starred in the comedy, "The Major and the Minor," currently playing at the Garden. Rita Johnson and Robert Benchley are included in the cast.

The co-feature at the Garden, "Wildcat," is a story of the oil fields. Richard Arlen and Arlene Jaffe are starred.

more thrilling drama of man's adventures with the vicious inhabitants of the dense Brazilian jungle. In this reviewer's opinion, hasn't been seen at any time. With a good-luck ring given him by Frank Buck, who incidentally is the narrator of the film, James Dannaldson sets out for the Amazon and for his encounter with the black-skinned, red-eyed man-killer known as Jacaré. Miguel Rojinsky, known as Jacaré, Miguel Rojinsky, a seasoned hunter, accompanies him on this perilous expedition.

Press Gag Effort a Disquieting Affair

IT IS IMPROBABLE that technical experts of the United Nations, engaged in a two weeks' discussion of the world food situation, will produce startling news at each session.

Not the importance or unimportance of the news produced at the forthcoming United Nations food conference at Hot Springs, Va., but the attempt of the United States government to suppress it—this is the issue posed in the order to bar reporters from access to delegates and from all sources that would, under conditions of free reporting enterprise, furnish information on which news is based.

A few weeks ago President Roosevelt expressed the "hope" that the conferees might pursue their discussions of food without the press being present to record the meeting. Now that "hope" has been translated into a regulation, under which the swank Homestead hotel, where the conference will be held, will be barred to newsmen. Reporters will be permitted to attend the formal opening and closing sessions, but otherwise their news will have to be obtained, outside the hotel grounds, from a flunky of the State department.

... rigid funneling and control of news is to be imposed at the first international conference of civilians to be held in the United States on a problem connected with this war. It is a vital problem. But it is not a problem that concerns the conduct of fleets or armies.

If food must be discussed behind closed doors, then how much greater pretext will be offered for discussion of controversial political questions in secret? The principle of barring reporters, once initiated, can—and doubtless will—be carried forward until free news enterprise will be in virtual suspension whenever it suits the government to impose such a ban.

The American press, ever since Pearl Harbor, has submitted to a code of censorship which it has been up to each individual newspaper to enforce upon itself. In this and other important respects, such as news emphasis and general handling of war news, the American newspapers have proved to be "responsible." No serious complaint has issued from an official quarter that this is not so.

That being the case, the attempt to gag the American press at the forthcoming food conference is a disquieting development.

As Everybody Has Expected

FRANK J. WALKER, Democratic national chairman, appears to be pretty well schooled in the Roosevelt technique of evasion. In fact, he does even better than his chief by just dodging a question curly and flatly. Mr. Roosevelt would at least have dragged in some sort of anecdote by way of illustration.

In his reply to Harrison E. Spangler, Republican national chairman, on the subject of a shortened presidential campaign next year, Walker merely expressed regret that the Republican party "does not agree." There was no shipsawing or stump-circling about it. Reduced to its essence it was just a "So Sorry."

Spangler had stated that the proposal would be readily accepted provided the president made it known that he would not be a candidate because "many millions of our people, not only in my party but many heretofore of yours, are determined that we shall not establish a dynasty in this country" by exalting a president to a fourth term." Whereas, a bitter campaign was inevitable and in fact had already begun.

Nothing more definite is now needed to show that Mr. Roosevelt is out for a fourth term, which, of course, everybody suspected when Governor Neely of West Virginia, and Senator Guffey, of Pennsylvania, started the ball rolling some time back and received no slap on the wrist when they talked it over with Mr. Roosevelt. No, as Alf Landon said the other day, Mr. Roosevelt will never leave the White House voluntarily.

Two Centuries Old But Good for Today

"EAT AND DRINK such an exact quantity as the constitution of thy body allow of, in reference to the services of the mind."

"They that study much ought not to eat as much as those that work hard, their digestion being not so good."

"The exact quantity and quality being found out, is to be kept to constantly."

"Excess in all other things whatever, as well as in meat and drink, is also to be avoided."

"Youth, age, and sick require a different quantity."

"And so do those of contrary complexions; for that which is too much for a phlegmatic man is not sufficient for a choleric."

"The measure of food ought to be (as much as possibly may be) exactly proportionable to the quality and condition of the stomach, because the stomach digests it."

"That quantity that is sufficient, the stomach can perfectly concoct and digest, and it sufficeth the due nourishment of the body."

"A greater quantity of some things may be eaten than of others, some being of lighter digestion than others."

"The difficulty lies in finding out an exact measure; but eat for necessity, not pleasure; for lust knows not where necessity ends."

"Wouldst thou enjoy a long life, a healthy body, and a vigorous mind, and be acquainted also with the wonderful works of God, labor in the first place to bring thy appetite to reason."

Prentiss Brown did not invent these rules. They are from Poor Richard's Almanack, whose author thought them up a couple of centuries before Ration Book I was issued in the United States.

Lame Ducks Get New Deal Gravy

THE DUTY of taking care of its lame ducks appears to be a fairly well established New Deal "directive." A compilation made by the National Republican Women's Club shows that twenty-nine New Deal candidates who were defeated in their own constituencies in the last balloting were promptly placed in important posts. Sixteen of the lot were thus rewarded since the 1942 campaign.

The list embraces only those in top places, and it would likely be of startling length if it should take in those in the lower ranks. Included are such worthies as Sherman Minton, of Indiana, defeated for United States senator, who was named to the federal circuit court; Clyde Herring, defeated for the federal Senate in Iowa, now an OPA deputy commissioner; Josh Lee, similarly defeated in Oklahoma, now a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board, and Maury Maverick, a spectacular New Deal representative, who failed to be elected mayor of his home town, but who is now a director of the governmental division of the WPB.

If the New Deal is consistent in anything it is in taking care of its own, and they probably deserve it considering what they had to do. It is all in line with the policy of perpetuation in power, however, but it seems hard on the really deserving old-line Democrats.

Japan says there can be no truce in the Pacific. That makes it unanimous.

The Brower's Bookshelf

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Sinclair Lewis has another novel rolling off the presses next week, another of his hell-raising explorations in the Elmer-Gantry vein. Calls it "Gideon Planish" and turns his bitterly humorous eye on "uplifters, de-gooders, lecturers, professional philanthropists, microphone hounds, committee maniacs, etc."

If those were the piping times of peace, "Gideon Planish" would be greeted with roars of rage from an infinite variety of easy-sitters who would abuse Mr. Sinclair most bitterly and declare that he wasn't referring to them. With a war on, that may not happen but the book has some mighty blows against the phony personages of the good foundations.

The Brower is not absolutely sure that Robert Frost requires the services of Louis Untermeyer as a running commentator for a book of Frost's best poems. And yet, in "Come In, and Other Poems" Mr. Untermeyer has done a pleasing and friendly job of editing, and Henry Holt and Company has produced a beautiful book.

Frost, who sold his first poem at 18 and did not publish his first book until twenty years later, is our greatest American poet. Stephen Vincent Benet who died the other day had greatness, too, but not of the strong and quietly everlasting quality that is in nearly all that Robert Frost creates.

It is not necessary for Untermeyer to write: "Frost judges but he rarely condemns; he is fundamentally serious but never pompous. Some critics have considered him essentially a moralist, but his worst enemy (if he has one) would not accuse him of trying to make anything or anyone over. He accepts the world's contradictions without being crushed by them." John O'Hara Cosgrove II, who illustrates the book, must have pleased the poet himself with his spare line drawings.

In "One Man's West" (Doubleday Doran), David Lavender describes a corner of our land that will not change greatly in our time. Southwestern Colorado and southeastern Utah where the mountain peaks rise three miles high and man lives and mines and guards his cattle and herds his sheep in a helter-skelter wasteland. Lavender's book is a personal account of life in that area. A lively book of tales that cannot be told too often—for the Brower's taste.

He likes James B. Connolly's "Master Marine: The Life and Voyages of Amasa Delano," too. It is a tardy tribute to a great American seaman who spent most of his life in the South Sea trade from the day in 1786 when he first sailed away from Massachusetts in his own ship at the age of 23. He saw all those islands that are in the headlines today and reaped no profit but a fascinating diary from his adventures. Mr. Connolly has done well to bring him back to us.

Do you know William Stephenson whose classic "The Friendly Arctic" has just been issued in a new edition by Macmillan? Also he is the famous Vilhjalmur Stefansson whose father Americanized his name before Vilhjalmur was born. In college a professor of Latin scolded immigrants for changing their names. So the young Vilhjalmur changed his back again. As, that's enough from Marsh Maslin.

Handicaps Faced At Food Confab Cause Concern

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Some fresh complication almost daily threatens to throw a crimp into the plan for a series of conferences, at various out-of-the-way places throughout this country, by the United Nations' representatives, to agree on a post-war program guaranteed, if possible, to insure future world peace.

Washington would seem like the natural city for these conferences to gather in, but, as pointed out by President Roosevelt, it is impossible, here, to prevent them from being publicized too fast.

Hence the argument in favor of concentrating them in a few comparatively unknown rural burghs, where accommodations are lacking for prying reporters to horn in. The original scheme was to exclude them altogether, but that raised a worse row.

Newsman Protest

American newspapermen naturally were the first folk heard from. In an effort to quiet them, it was announced from the executive mansion that Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information, would cover all the proceedings and make as full reports to the press generally as was considered expedient. This immediately drew attention to Elmer, and a story promptly was circulated relative to his activity among members of the Ford peace party early in the last war.

True, he was with the tourists, not as a peace delegate, but as a news correspondent for one of the New-York dailies. The scribes soon decided, though, that the whole affair was ridiculous, and Elmer, as one of their number, hit on the notion of organizing a society, to make it as much so as they could manage.

Drafted Constitution

Being the scheme's originator, Elmer drafted this group's constitution and by-laws and christened it "The Vacillating Sons and Sisters of St. Vitus."

At their initial meeting in the steamship Oscar II's smoking room, his fellow tourists unanimously chose him as the organization's head under the title of "Grand Exalted Keeper of the Padded Cell."

In his maturity of today I have no idea that Elmer would lend himself to such a piece of tom-foolery, but current journalism was not slow in proclaiming that it didn't fancy being made entirely dependent, for information concerning the coming post-war discussions, upon the "grand exalted keeper of a padded cell" during the last conflict.

American editors were not the only ones outraged by the presidential secrecy ukase. Spokesmen for others of the United Nations wanted access to the conference for their own writers.

Revision Forced

In any event, the commotion was such that the administration finally proclaimed a revision of its earlier decree, and informed reporters that, after all, they would be admitted to the post-war conferees' sessions.

Then came the further news that they would not be admitted to ALL sessions, but only to the first and last ones, per each conference, of which there will be a considerable number, beginning with the confab starting May 18 (the food discussion), a postponement from April 27, which was too soon for all the invited delegates to arrive in America.

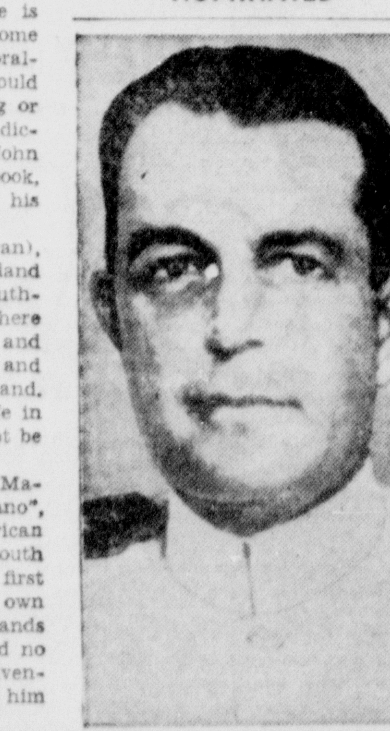

That wasn't a serious miscalculation but a perfectly awful one was just coming.

As the first out-of-the-way place for the international conferees to assemble, President Roosevelt chose Hot Springs, Va.

Secrecy at International Conferences Arouses Disapproval among Diplomats

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 18—Some highly placed men in the State department have expressed to senators their personal disapproval of Mr. Roosevelt's wish to bar congressmen and limit the press at the international food and refugee conferences.

They say they would have opened up both meetings, but Mr. Roosevelt personally made the decision against that course.

Thus, already there has been created here a situation dangerous to the success of these meetings.

The decision made by both conferences will have to be approved by public opinion, or the conferences might as well have never been held. If the developments of the conferences were fully reported in the daily press, the public mind might be prepared to accept the decisions favorably.

Aid by Congress Necessary

Furthermore, both conferences will no doubt require congressional legislation and appropriations to fulfill their recommendations. But, with no congressman present at either gathering, enthusiastic congressional championships of the plans to be adopted is hardly to be expected.

No doubt the president has in mind the theory that if the press reports daily squabbles in the meetings, and the congressmen know about these, they can be used by some individual groups to promote political opposition to the majority decisions of the meetings. Obviously, he does not want the press or Congress to influence the decisions of the meetings by comments while they are going on.

But the way he did it, he promoted probably more opposition than would otherwise have been forthcoming—as both gatherings are technical and likely to be of little sustained news value.

MacArthur's Warning

Gen. MacArthur's solemn public warning about the danger of his air situation in the South Pacific was obviously designed to pry more fighting aircraft out of reluctant Washington. But it has also been stirred a general over-all decision of war strategy.

The debaters are discussing technicalities such as the number of troops, planes and ships here and there while neglecting to stress the primary defect of our positions both in the South Pacific and in Europe.

Look at the map of MacArthur's position. He has struggled successfully for months to gain a foothold on New Guinea, mainly to protect Australia.

Our navy, marine, and army forces have fought desperately also to employees of draft status, and the small number of actual deferments now in force, are very revealing and reflects close co-operation of all concerned.

My business experience leads me to be of the opinion that a more liberal policy on deferments would be more sensible and insure a smoother operation on all fronts and bring Victory nearer for us.

Cry for More Aid In Pacific Is Real, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 18 — The cry for help from the South Pacific is delicately phrased but it is none the less real. The American commander-in-chief in the Australian area calls for help.

The chief of all of our air forces in the same area calls for help. Members of Congress debate the issue. The War and Navy department chiefs discuss the subject in rather general terms, stating that more help is forthcoming, but it is evident that the plan is to hold the line and not endeavor to put on any major or grand scale offensives.

The reason, of course, for this plan to maintain the defensive is that there are supposedly not enough weapons to go around in the global war and not enough ships to transport what we are producing.

But since Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt have decided on putting all emphasis on the European and African areas, naturally high officials of the army and navy here must conform to that policy. They cannot criticize. They must accept the decisions no matter what they think of them.

No such rule binds members of Congress, and, incidentally, within certain limits it doesn't altogether suppress comments by the officers in the Southwest Pacific. It may well be asked why Gen. Kenney, chief of our air forces there, in a public comment, passed by the censor, takes issue with the spokesmen of the administration here who indicate that the threat of a Japanese attack is not as serious as it has been painted.

There is far more significance to the comments of the generals in the Southwest Pacific than meets the eye. It is not a comfortable position either for Gen. MacArthur or Gen. Kenney to appear to be differing with their own superiors in Washington — Secretaries Stimson and Knox. But it may be assumed that the latter must publicly at least defend the president's policy — they are spokesmen who are bound by cabinet policies.

Comment Significant

As for the generals in the field. They must have weighed carefully the implication of their comments. They must have known that the whole country would look askance at such contradictory and even critical observations. The reason can only be that our commanders believe a debacle of major proportions threatens our forces in the Southwest Pacific and that they hope that if it comes and the American people grow indignant about it, they will not blame the commanders who are left to hold the bag. Military men do not like to be humiliated by defeats that come from superior numbers, and, while they do not hesitate to put up the best fight they can, they also do not hesitate to ask for sufficient forces with which to confront the enemy in an approaching battle.

Enemy Reaps Advantage

Also, while it is a simple matter to make everybody in Washington adhere to the global decisions of the president and the prime minister and it is probably easy enough to send word to Gen. MacArthur and Kenney to keep quiet and conform, the Japanese are under no such obligation. It is to be expected that Tokyo's general staff will take advantage of the Anglo-American decision to subordinate the Japanese war to the fight on Hitler. Indeed, Hitler probably is egging the Japanese on to make further advances toward Australia and capture more territory so as to show the world that the United States is not as powerful as it professes to be. For with a navy and an aircraft production smaller by far than ours, Japan is now enjoying numerical superiority in the South Pacific both in planes and ships.

As long as Japan can be held at bay, criticism will not be considered particularly persuasive, but once the tide of battle begins to go against us in the Pacific, the public will remember the MacArthur-Kenney plea for help that wasn't granted.

Japanese Busy

Ever since the Casablanca conference, where the decision was made to concentrate on Hitler and take chances on what happens in the Far East, Japan has evidently been increasing her forces. She is reported to have sent 200,000 men to the string of islands which constitute a sort of wall between her newly conquered territories and the Indian ocean. She is also known to have built up her airfields and to have sent more and more bombers as well as fighters to airfields near Australia.

Apparently the Japanese think they can keep us busy in Northern Australia and New Guinea for another couple of years while the Tokyo government builds the necessary machine tools and factories to put out heavier and heavier bombs and more and more ships. Time works for the Japanese. And Gen. MacArthur and Kenney believe in telling the facts to the American people.

Goebbels Is Mistaken

From the Connellsville, Pa., Courier

Propaganda Minister Goebbels, admitting disaster in Tunisia and smarting under the aerial blows showered on the Reich by Royal Air Force and American bombers, has appealed to the people of Essen and other devastated cities to be patient. They should bear in mind, he told them, that "the trials of today will soon be forgotten after the war."

Herr Goebbels is mistaken. The United Nations will not fall into the same error which permitted the Germans to re-arm after World War I. Only by occupation and policing can it be prevented. Forgetting will be impossible—for many a year.

Not so long ago Goebbels assured the German people they would always be safe against Allied bombers. Following the same line he tells them today that "the enemy can inflict appreciable but never decisive damage."

Time will tell. It won't be long!

Major League Clubs Open Season This Week; Cards, Yanks Favored

Lack of Competition for Pitchers Worries Managers; Senators, A's Meet Tomorrow

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—Prepared, more or less by a month of catch as catch can training in the North, the major leagues are ready to lift the curtain on the 1943 baseball season.

What is revealed will not be a collection of faultless baseball talent, but since the heavy hand of war has been felt proportionately by all the clubs the fans are likely to see pennant races as spirited as those of the past—and certainly as unpredictable.

The first action of the new season is slated for Washington Tuesday when the Senators will entertain the Philadelphia Athletics at Griffith stadium in their customary ceremonial opener.

Wednesday the whole shooting gallery will start firing with these pairings:

American League — Washington at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Detroit at Cleveland, Chicago at St. Louis.

National League — St. Louis at Cincinnati, New York at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at Boston, Pittsburgh at Chicago.

Baseball men are hoping for good weather for all of these games and waiting to compare attendance figures with those of last year, but the total turnout for eight contests was 183,957.

It is generally believed that interest in the sport is high in spite of the sterner issues of war. But baseball has shown an ability to adapt itself to wartime conditions and the major league representatives are optimistic.

Cards, Yanks Favored

This year they postponed the opening of the season a week, gave up their southern training expeditions and reduced travel for the regular season by such expedients as scheduling three intercontinental trips instead of four.

Baseball writers, in a poll conducted by the Associated Press, chose the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in the National League and the always formidable New York Yankees in the American League as favorites to repeat their conquests of last year. However, the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were not nosed out till the final day of the 1942 season, also have looked potent in training and in the handicapper book of James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner, were rated at the same odds as the Cardinals, 9 to 10.

Most of the teams have managed to get into good physical condition during their training. North of the Potomac and Ohio rivers, but all of them have been retarded by the lack of actual competition due to mischievous weather which has caused a succession of cancellations of exhibition games.

Few clubs have even one pitcher who has worked a full-nine-inning game this spring and this fact not only has made it impossible for many managers to choose their opening hurlers definitely, but also has impelled two or three pilots to say they would not try to use their starting pitchers for more than five or six innings in the early games.

Redbirds Face Cincinnati

The opposing moundmen for the inaugural at the nation's capital Tuesday, though, are almost certain to be Emil (Dutch) Leonard for the Senators and Luman (Lum) Harris for the Reds.

Canadian Takes Boston Marathon

BOSTON, April 18 (AP)—Little Gerard Cote, a Canadian infantry sergeant stationed at Valleyfield, Que., became the sixth repeater in the forty-seventh-year history of the famed Boston A. A. marathon today when he finished a minute, 38 1-5 seconds ahead of Private Johnny Kelley, of Boston and the United States Army. They had raced side by side over all but the last five miles of the hilly twenty-five-mile stretch from Hopkinton to the Back Bay section of this city.

Cote, who gained his first B.A.A. victory in 1940 and finished eighth or better in all the other races back to 1937, was timed in 1:28:25 4-5, only a minute and 34 3-5 seconds slower than the world's fastest marathon time turned in by last year's winner, Joe Smith, of Medford, now serving in the United States Coast Guard.

Most of the other favorites in the small starting field of eighty-nine, which included four other former winners, were among the earliest to reach the finish line. Fred McGlone, of Boston, the current national marathon titlist, was a very close third in 2:30:41; Lloyd Baird, of Boston, now in the United States Navy was fourth in 2:33:47 and Leslie Pawson, of Pawtucket, R. I., third B.A.A. victor, was fifth in 2:35:58.

Baltimore's husky Don Heinicke, who finished fourth, third and second in the last three Boston "grinds," wound up in sixth place and the others in the first ten, in order, were Bill Wiklund, of Clifton, N. J.; Tony Medeiros and Lou Young, both of Medford, and Mike O'Hara, of New York and the United States Navy.

Navy Teams Make Sweep of Weekend Athletic Events

More than 11,000 Race Fans Wager $472,000 at Pimlico Track

By The Associated Press

The weekend proved a bonanza for Maryland sports fans.

On tap were racing, baseball, lacrosse, swimming, track, golf and tennis contests—plus a visit to Baltimore of the old master of the links, Bobby Jones.

In addition, the weekend was marked by the entrance of the first woman into the ranks of bonafide professional jockeys, first at least, in the history of Free State racing.

The Naval Academy had one of its regular full Saturday sports programs, and made a clean sweep to take all six events on the schedule.

In a triangular track meet, the Tars captured six first and eleven second places to run up eighty-seven points against Columbia and Pennsylvania, which gathered thirty-four and thirty-three respectively.

The Navy baseball team bumped Pitcher Bob McKee, of the University of Pittsburgh, for five runs in the first three innings to go on to a 7-3 victory over the Panthers.

The plebe baseball squad kept pace with the varsity by defeating Admiral Farragut Academy, 5-3.

Navy Stickmen Win

The Middy golfers and tennis team won its matches against Princeton university representatives of those sports.

The big feature of the day at Annapolis, however, was the lacrosse contest between Navy and Johns Hopkins—two contenders for the national intercollegiate stick crown.

Navy won, 7-4, by virtue of a fourth quarter spurt in which the Midshipmen tallied four markers.

In another contest having much bearing on the race for national lacrosse honors, the University of Maryland won over Princeton, 8 to 5, in a contest played at Princeton.

The Old Liners were hard-put to defeat Princeton—winners of the intercollegiate diadem last year—and were forced to come from behind in the last nine minutes of play.

Loyola college finished second to Catholic university in a five-team track meet held in Washington. Catholic scored sixty points to Loyola's forty, and Lynchburg, Gaudet and American university followed in that order.

$472,000 Bet at Pimlico

More than 11,000 race fans poured $472,000 through the mutual windows at Pimlico Saturday to make successful the second day of the special five-day meeting for the benefit of the National War Fund.

Bobby Jones came to Baltimore—by left his golf clubs at home. Bobby, now Major Robert Tyne Jones, of the First Fighter Command, United States Army Air Forces, was here on business.

He is now engaged in recruiting volunteers for army aircraft warning centers. He said he had not had a golf club in his hands since January.

Miss Judy Johnson, of Washington, D. C., horsewoman extraordinary, was given a license by the Maryland Racing Association as a steeple-chase jockey.

Already holder of a trainer's license, Miss Johnson, is believed to be the first of her sex in America's turf history to hold a jockey's credentials.

Spring football training at Fort Hill high will be climaxed by a game which will represent the Sentinels in the fall and a team composed of seniors at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Bill Hahn, who said the game is being played earlier this spring than usual, added that boys who want to report for baseball will be excused but that others will continue to report the next several weeks for special instruction.

Coach Hahn indicated Don McGill and Mike LaGrone will get the call at ends with William Taylor and Dick Turner the second choices. "Fats" Martin and Wayne Ansel will be backed up for duty at the tackles by Luther Cox and "Pats" Miller. The starting guards will be Palmer Sullivan and Eddie Siebert with Stanford Zollner, Paul Cook and Robert Price in reserve. Getting the call at center will be Bill McBride, Melvin O'Neal and Dick Groves, in that order.

Ray Lapp has shown up well at quarterback with Gene Ferguson the next best. Joe Monteleone is the No. 1 fullback but Bob Shelly and Bill Pitzer have shown promise. The halfback crop includes Warren Squires, "Bubbles" Whitman, Dick White, Ken James, Darl Jewell, Bob Canor and James Hunter.

Champs Pep, White Face Action This Week

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—Willie Pep and Luther (Sluggo) White are the only champions who'll be seen in action on this week's national boxing program but neither's title will be at stake.

Pep, New York-recognized feather-weight king from Hartford, Conn., takes on Angel Aviles, of Mexico in a ten-rounder at Tampa, Fla., tomorrow night and White, who holds the Maryland version of

BY GRANTLAND RICE
(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

About Don Cameron

Unless you've had a Man o' War, a Gallant Fox, a Whirlaway or a Count Fleet to handle and keep ready, you don't know much about the bundle you are carrying. You should have been around with Ben Jones when he was trying to get Whirlaway ready for the 1941 Kentucky Derby test.

All you had to do was cough and Ben would jump two feet and run to the barn to see if it were Whirlaway coughing.

Now, big Don Cameron carries the same burden. He is the good-looking fellow who trains Count Fleet, shortest-priced favorite the sixty-nine-year-old Kentucky Derby ever knew. And don't think that's any light load to carry. If you win—how could you miss? If you don't—you fall "like Lucifer, never to rise again."

Don Cameron, being a Scot, can be seething inside but outwardly you'd never know it. He only shows you a carefree, easygoing, "Why-worry" make-up.

"When I'm doing my best," he told me, "and the horse is doing his best, the rest of it is in the laps of the gods—who might be called Chance."

The Cameron Training

Don's father, Duncan Cameron, was an owner and trainer, a leading horseman. Also, a farmer and cattle breeder.

Don, an Oakland, California, boy, decided to be an athlete. During his high-school and college days he was a crack athlete. Including football, the main test. Before this he had to fight off a heavy charge of diphtheria and infantile paralysis, where doctors gave him up.

After leaving college, Don went in for farming and cattle raising—and then came the call of blood and breeding. He went in as a trainer. Bad luck—so back to farming. Then back to horses.

His first success was Hey Diddle Diddle, a crack sprinter. Then Duke Bellini, sold to Mrs. Dodge Sloane.

He didn't wish to train for Hollywood owners, gave it one try, then quite. Reason—Hollywood atmosphere. Don is that type of a fellow. There are many things that mean more to him than money—including his own complete independence. The funny part of this is that Don, as some turf writer told me, "looks more like a big, forceful motion picture director than a horse trainer."

The trouble here is that motion picture directors never look alike—including Greg La Cava, Frank Capra, Howard Hawks, Sam Wood, Alfred Hitchcock and many others. Don Cameron looks the way that most of them would like to look, including many leading men.

And Then—Count Fleet.

Don Cameron finally found the spot for which he was looking. This was a training job with John D. Hertz, a real horseman who let him alone.

After that a Hertz horse came along by the name of Count Fleet—a Reigh County descendant. Count Fleet could have been bought for $4500. He was rather an odd-looking yearling. But Cameron began to study Count Fleet's whims. He nursed him along. He was patient and understanding. Naturally, at the start, he had no idea the Count Fleet of April, 1942, would be the Count Fleet of April, 1943.

"I knew the horse had the possibilities of remarkable speed," Cameron told me quietly. He always speaks quietly.

Occupation had beaten him. Then Occupation and Count Fleet later were to run in Maryland.

"How will they finish?" I asked Don.

"Count Fleet will beat Occupation exactly six lengths," Cameron told me. He did.

"You may have a better horse than Man o' War," I said to him. "I may," Don said, "and I may not. Let's wait." Still Scotch.

"What about having the shortest-priced winter-book horse the Derby ever knew?" I asked.

"That's up to Count Fleet," Don said. "In my book, a great horse. I don't think he's worrying. Neither am I."

I'll add—a great horse and a great trainer. Not a bad combination.

EXHIBITION BASEBALL

Reds Top Indians

CINCINNATI, April 18 (AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau, of the Cleveland Indians, kicked away the ball game today, giving the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1, ten-inning victory for a sweep of the four games of their spring exhibition series.

The Reds' first unearned run came in the second inning when Frank McCormick singled and Boudreau threw wild trying to force him at second on Eddie Miller's grounder. Bert Haas then singled McCormick home.

The Indians tied it up in the eighth on Pitcher Vern Kennedy's single. Oris Hockett's sacrifice, a walk to Boudreau and Ken Keltner's single.

With two out in the tenth, Boudreau fumbled a grounder by Frank McCormick, and Frank was promptly singled around by Woody Williams and Haas to win the game.

Dodgers Chill Yanks

BROOKLYN, April 18 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers chilled the New York Yankees, 4 to 2, again today as both clubs concluded their season exhibition schedule before 8,798 fans at Ebbets Field.

It was the Dodgers fifth victory in as many games with the American League champions and their eleventh triumph in twelve practice games. The Yankees won only three of ten exhibitions.

Each team made six hits today, but the Yanks' run-making was reduced to a solo tally in the second and another in the eighth after the Dodgers had bashed Spud Chandler for two runs in the first and added single scores in the fourth and sixth.

Phils Defeat A's

PHILADELPHIA, April 18 (AP)—Earl Naylor's home run with one on base and the score tied at 1-1 in the sixth inning gave the Philadelphia Nationals a 4-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Americans in the fourth and final game of the city series today before 3,500.

The Phillies' triumph gave them an even break in the four games. The A's made their one run and all their hits off Jack Kraus, who twirled the first five innings for the Phillies. Rowe did not allow a safety in the final four. John Burrows was the victim of the Phillies' winning rally.

Red Sox Score, 5-3

BOSTON, April 18 (AP)—Bobby Doerr's fifth-inning homer into the left field screen with Eddie Lake on base enabled the Boston Red Sox to open their three-game intra-city series with the Braves with a 5-3 victory today before a 10,010 crowd at Fenway park.

Doerr's four-bagger, made off Nate Andrews, broke a 3-3 tie for both teams put on rallies in the third inning. The Braves counted all of their runs on a base on balls. Pitcher Joe Dobson's error and singles by Al Javery, Tommy Holmes and Charlie McCarthy. The Soxers then singled Javery for three runs on singles by Johnny Peacock, Dobson and Pete Fox and Eddie Lake's two-bagger.

Tigers Shade Bucs

DETROIT, April 18 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers squared their exhibition series with the Pittsburgh Pirates at three games each by pushing home a run in the tenth inning on Catcher Paul Richards' single for a 1 to 0 victory before 6,846 spectators at Briggs stadium.

Up to the tenth, Rip Sewell, Johnny Lanning and Lloyd Dietz had limited the Tigers to two singles, but Jimmy Bielowitz greeted Southpaw Wally Hebert in the extra frame with a single, moved up on Joe Hoover's sacrifice and scored on Richards' drive to left field.

Frank (Stub) Overmire, rookie southpaw, pitched four-hit ball for six innings and then turned the job over to Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who yielded two singles in four frames. Overmire extended his string of scoreless innings to fifteen. Jim Russell got three hits for Pittsburgh. PITTSBURGH (N). 000 000 000-0-0 6-1

Count Fleet's Injury Responds To Treatment

Slide Rule and Twoses May Swell Field for Derby to 12

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—The cut every winter-book better felt—the gash on Count Fleet's foot—apparently was responding to treatment today, even though a piece of hoof had to be cut away, and Trainer Don Cameron said he would ship the "derby dandy" to Louisville tomorrow, "barring accident."

The "accident" was the danger of infection, and no one will know for sure about that until the thick sulfa-drug dressing is changed tomorrow morning. Then the veterinarians will get a better look-see at the damage the Hertz hurricane suffered in coming out of the gate in yesterday's Wood Memorial at Jamaica, but which had no more effect than a broken shoelace on the colt's cakewalk to victory.

Meantime the Eastern delegation to the Kentucky Derby was promised two additional "delegates" in W. E. Boelings' Slide Rule and Twoses, and the possible starting field in the big barnyard May 1 loomed as a twelve-horse roundup.

Twoses Impresses Trainer

Trainer Cecil Wilhelmsen announced he is planning to send both Twoses and Slide Rule to the Blue Grass May 1. "Ceece" was impressed with Twoses' Fast third-place finish back of the Count in yesterday's mile-and-a-sixteenth, the first time in his life the husky chestnut had ever run more than six furlongs.

Wilhelmsen also disclosed that Slide Rule had been laid up for several days before the race, after pulling up "sore" in a workout, and that his fifth-place finish in the Wood probably resulted from his being "short" in training.

The trainer expected final word from Owner Boelings in Seattle tonight, but pending a last-minute change he will put the pair on a train Thursday and start them in the Derby Trial Stakes April 27.

The Count had his railroad ticket on the 1:15 p. m. train to Louisville tomorrow, but Trainer Cameron said he might have to make a later reservation if there was even a slight possibility that infection might develop.

"We won't take any chances on having an infection set in on the train," he explained. "The injury may leave the Count score in that foot for a time, but it's the infection we're more worried about."

The derby field now appeared to include five or six horses from around this neighborhood and the same number from among those already down in the derby back yard.

GOOD TELEPHONE NEIGHBORS, TOO!

With party lines on the increase, it is more important than ever that neighbors on the same telephone line be considerate of each other by answering promptly, by being brief on all calls and by hanging up carefully when a call is finished. KNOW THE REVOKE LAWS
YOU CAN prevent a lot of arguments at the table if you become known as one with positive knowledge of the new Laws. None of these is more important than the new method of dealing with revoke. There are five main changes in it, as follows:

1. Your first revoke in any particular suit costs you two tricks, as before, but additional revokes by you in the same suit cost no additional penalty.
2. If your revoke costs the other side more tricks than the two-trick penalty, the additional tricks must be restored to it, by agreement of the players, so that the innocent parties are not punished by your revoke.
3. The dummy now has the right to question any player as to whether his play constitutes a revoke.
4. The declarer is no longer prevented from withdrawing his revoke card and substituting one of the correct suit if the dummy questions him after having intentionally seen one or more cards in some other player's hand.
5. The declarer does not incur the penalty for an established revoke if, when correcting a lead out of turn from the dummy, he fails to lead the same suit from his own hand, unless he was specifically required to do so or questioned as to a revoke.

Dr. Myers Says Help Save Young From War Evils

Average Working Mother Isn't Willing To Pay for Child Care

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Recently, I said that for the protection of children and for checking the upsurge of juvenile delinquency, women who are childless or whose children are nearly grown should be drafted for war industries, and those with children under 15 should stay at home unless proper care can be provided.

Thousands of children, from 6 to 15, are being neglected, running the streets, getting into all sorts of mischief at home and outside the home while their mothers are working. I wonder the juvenile delinquents getting younger and younger.

In Gary, Indiana, the Block Mother plan begun by the PTA or safety in possible air raids, has extended to help working mothers know where they can find a child-rearing center or a person or home in which to board the children while the mother works.

In some other cities, the Family Service Bureau is offering this help. Yet the average working mother is not willing to pay anything for the care of her children. Until she chooses or is forced to do so, we who are the neighbors of her neglected children owe it to our children and the community to do what we can to protect her children.

Dr. Neulen's Letter

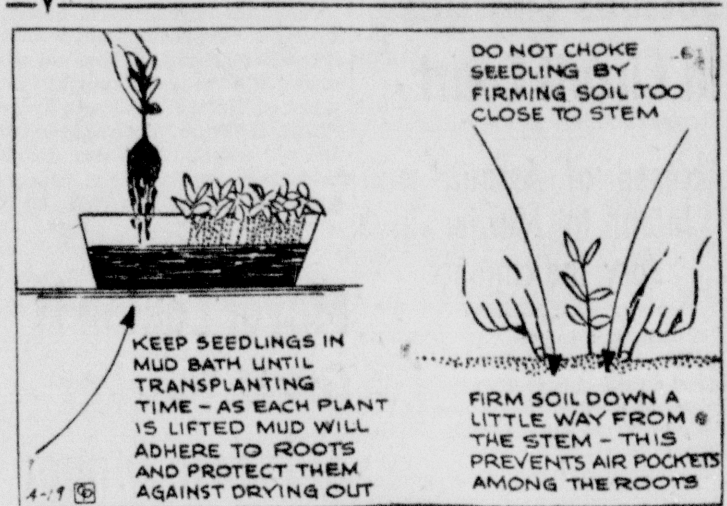

While conferring recently with Superintendent of Schools Dr. Leo Neulen of Camden, N. J., he showed me a letter he had written the War Manpower Commission. We quote with Dr. Neulen's permission:

"Is it not the responsibility of the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services, the United States Office of Education and the Children's Bureau to conduct a nationwide campaign urging industry to (1) select first only women without children (married and single), (2) select only married women who can arrange to have their children taken care of satisfactorily by relatives or personal friends, (3) place married women with children on a split schedule so that they can be home as far as possible to care for their own children? Unless this is done, both industry and government will stand condemned after this war for creating the greatest social maladjustment problem that our country has ever experienced."

"When news releases are made in Washington concerning the needs for women in industry, why not have the social responsibilities brought into bold relief at the same time? Let industry know how they can meet their responsibilities in the selection of women. Let us popularize women's styles along with the patriotic need to assist in industry; and let the women know that there are a 'hundred and one' things they can do in industry."

"If this doesn't work, then let our War Manpower Commission draft all women without children and put them to work in industry immediately."

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPE

DO NOT CHOKER SEEDLING BY FIRING SOIL TOO CLOSE TO STEM

KEEP SEEDLINGS IN MUD BATH UNTIL TRANSPLANTING TIME - AS EACH PLANT IS LIFTED MUD WILL ADHERE TO ROOTS AND PROTECT THEM AGAINST DRYING OUT

FIRM SOIL DOWN A LITTLE WAY FROM THE STEM - THIS PREVENTS AIR POCKETS AMONG THE ROOTS

Mud Baths for Victory Vegetables

By DEAN HALLIDAY

If you purchase your Victory vegetable seedlings, instead of growing them yourself, you may find upon getting the plants home that most of the soil has dried and fallen away from their roots. This can be the result of carelessness in not watering the flat sufficiently to cause the soil to form a compact ball about the roots when the plants are lifted.

If you find your seedlings to be in the above described condition the best way to keep such plants until you can set them out is to fill a pan with a thin mud mixture and keep the seedlings in this mud until transplanting time.

When the plants are lifted out of the pan containing the mud mixture the wet soil will adhere to their roots, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, and protect them against drying out.

When setting out these young plants and firming them in place, do not choke the stem of each plant by firming too closely to it. Press the soil gently but firmly around each plant so as not to leave any air pockets. Instead of packing the soil tightly against the stem proper firm the soil an inch or more away from the stem as illustrated.

Five things should be remembered in transplanting Victory vegetable plants: (1) Do not let the roots dry out. (2) Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the roots without crowding. (3) Set the plant a little deeper in the soil than as formerly planted. (4) Press the soil down around the roots firmly to prevent air pockets. (5) Water the newly transplanted plants immediately after setting them.

ately, I believe the Austin-Wadsworth measure now before the Senate is a step in this direction. Mothers must be protected as our 'first line of defense' in safeguarding our family and our society."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you favor a curfew law for each city, town and village now, requiring children under sixteen to be home after dark when not accompanied by a responsible adult or given a special permit by proper authorities?

A. I do; and for the older teenage youth after ten p. m.—a law that is rigidly enforced.

Though the airline distance along the Maine coast is 225, the numerous indentations make the shoreline almost 2,500 miles long.

The application of the epaulette as a mark of rank was begun in France in 1759.

The car raced past and thumped things alive. Agatha was safe from the thorns, but Cleopatra had to throw herself flat on the seat. The engine died.

Silence dropped on them, so sudden it was frightening. There was no sound of their pursuer.

"He's at least a couple of turns back down that road," said Cleopatra. "I've time to untie you."

"Gracious, child! Don't worry about me. Are we turned around?"

Cleopatra had climbed out—a somewhat difficult feat under the bushes that pushed down thick above them. She opened the rear door and worked swiftly at the ropes that held Agatha's wrists.

"We're turned around and headed downhill, ready to give a surprise as soon as he appears," the girl explained. "There! Now you can at least hang onto something instead of taking a beating."

Agatha moved her arms gingerly. Her wrists hurt horribly. Her right knee hurt from something it had struck—she couldn't remember what. But she didn't seem to have any broken bones. She rose up, holding onto the front seat, and peered over the top as Cleopatra climbed in behind the steering wheel again.

"That man's no foreign agent," Cleopatra whispered. "He's merely some ruffian who was hired to bring us into here. All he's interested in is money, and now he knows the value of this radio tube."

"Is it safe?"

"Right here beside me. Sit! Listen!"

The horse's hooves were beating a skittish tattoo on the loose timber of the bridge.

"The horse is already frightened," said Agatha. "That man doesn't know how to ride."

"Hold tight! Here we go!"

The horseman rode into view. He did not see the car behind the screen of bushes. He was having all he could do to handle his mount, which was snorting and full of spirit after its long wait for a rider.

Cleopatra lifted her foot from the brake pedal. The car rolled ahead. She pulled it into high gear and turned on the ignition. The motor sprang to life. They leaped forward, bursting through the screen, straight for the startled horse and rider. With her hand hard on the horn Cleopatra blasted the mountain peace.

The horse shied in terror. The man, wide-eyed, made one attempt to aim his gun, then found the horse wild to save himself as his steed jumped to one side.

The BLIND MAN'S SECRET

by RICHARD HOUGHTON

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

AS THE kidnaper reached in to grab at the radio tube on the front seat Cleopatra suddenly threw the car into gear. It leaped ahead with a jerk that would have stalled a cold engine. Agatha was flung back against the rear cushions. She saw the man stagger, lose his footing and fall as the car swept past him.

"Duck!" cried Cleopatra. "He'll shoot!"

There wasn't any need of the order. Agatha had bounced to the floor. Rolling helplessly because of her tied hands, she saw the trees and sky rocking overhead as though they had gone mad. But it was the car that had gone mad.

She heard no gun explosion. The car was making too much noise. But she saw the windshield shatter in a neat pattern of cracks with a round hole in the center. The bullet must have passed close to Cleopatra's head.

Lottig Outlines Need for Chest During Wartime

Work of Completing Organization for Campaign To Be Speeded

With the Allegheny county Red Cross War Fund campaign successfully and officially closed, Community Chest leaders are speeding completion of plans and organization for the annual drive, scheduled to begin May 3, to raise a goal of $8,755.

Roy C. Lottig, general chairman of the chest organization, said last night that the extension of the Red Cross campaign into April, to enable towns in the county to reach their quotas, delayed the work of organizing the Community Chest forces here.

"We all appreciate how important it is that the Red Cross service for our fighting men must be supplied in generous measure," Lottig said, "and from the start of the chest campaign organization, leaders of the chest have made every effort to avoid any action which might distract from the Red Cross appeal for funds. Now that the Red Cross goal has been reached, and we have all done our part, we must turn our attention to the agencies here at home. Here on the home front, every thing possible must be done to keep our way of life firm and strong, so that we can protect and perpetuate the democratic principles and freedoms our men are fighting for.

"Every one of the eleven organizations which comprise the Community Chest, has greater problems in war time," Lottig explained. "The job of character building agencies and youth training organizations is greater in war time. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has called attention to a serious increase in juvenile delinquency. This is a problem such organizations as the Boy and Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A., and Salvation Army must face and are facing."

"At the Keating Day Nursery," Lottig continued, "the war time burden of caring for children of working parents is far greater than it has ever been. The Baby Welfare Society and League for Crippled Children are continuing their work, just as in peace time."

"Many people often feel that when there is little or no unemployment in a community, there is little or no need for such agencies as those which make up the Chest," the chairman concluded. "This is a misconception, because social and welfare problems increase when people have less time to give their families. And whether the country is at peace or war, there are always the aged, handicapped and crippled who must also be given aid."

Rationing Books Are Not Kept in Office

Ration board officials commenting Saturday on the wholesale theft of gasoline coupons in Baltimore last week and one in Hagerstown early this year, said that any attempt to burglarize the local rationing office would be futile since there are no supplies of ration books kept in the office.

Early Morning Fire Damages Home; Origin Unknown

Flames at Frank Bennett's Residence Start in the Basement

Fire of undetermined origin early yesterday morning damaged the home of Frank Bennett, 730 Brookfield avenue. The loss was estimated at $2,000, partly covered by insurance.

The flames started in the basement and followed a partition to the first floor, Bennett said, before the fire was brought under control by South End firemen just short of burning through the first floor ceiling to the second floor.

Both Bennett and firemen credited plaster board and rock wool insulation in the basement with preventing the flames from spreading through the house and possibly causing its destruction. Sprinklers in the basement garage were set off by hot smoke.

Bennett, sleeping on the third floor, said he was awakened about 3:30 a. m. by the noise of the flow control valve on the furnace which sounded after the flow of heat was cut off when the electric power failed.

Smoke on the third floor was like a "light fog" when he awoke, Bennett said, although the door to the third floor was shut.

Much of the fire was between the partitions separating the dining room and the living room, Bennett said, and not much furniture was damaged from the flames although some was damaged by water. A grand piano was badly damaged. A sliding door in the partition on the first floor was destroyed.

Bennett said he summoned firemen, who "responded promptly and did a very good job," and roused his son-in-law and two daughters and his mother-in-law who were sleeping on the second floor.

Firemen were out two hours and forty minutes on the call. At 7:18 a. m. yesterday Central firemen were called to the home of Frank Reynolds, 139 Hanover street, to extinguish a flue fire.

County Poultrymen Urged to New Goal in Egg Production

Allegheny county poultrymen are asked by the government to produce approximately 392,000 dozen eggs this year, 3.7 per cent more than in 1942, as their share in the Food for Victory program, the North-eastern Poultry Producers Council estimates.

Leon Todd, managing director of NEPPCO, declared that farmers can reach this goal, which is based on the percentage increase suggested for Maryland by the United States Department of Agriculture, if adequate supplies of labor and feed are available.

"Poultry farmers are now working harder than ever in all-out war production," Todd said, "continuing the magnificent job they did last year by producing 378,000 dozen eggs in this county to help supply civilian, military and lease-lend needs."

Maryland poultrymen, who produced a total of 333,333 dozen eggs in 1942, are asked for 34,596,000 dozen this year as their share of the national egg goal of 4,780,000,000 dozen.

Bedford Springs Sailor Is Arrested by Police On Charge of Disorder

A sailor from the Bedford Springs, Pa., Naval Training station who gave his name as police headquarters as John H. Smith, was arrested at 9:50 a. m. yesterday by Lieut. James E. Van and Officer Edwin Lilly on a disorderly conduct charge.

Van said the sailor was drinking and kicked in the glass in the door of the shoe repair shop owned by Joseph E. Idoni at 14 Baltimore street, about 2:30 a. m. yesterday.

The sailor, Van said, made restitution for the damage and posted bond of $10 for a hearing in police court today.

Woman Is Treated For Fractured Arm

Mrs. Pearl Erickson, 38, Potomac Park, was treated in Memorial hospital at 1:30 a. m. yesterday for a fracture of her arm, suffered in a fall down the stairs at her home.

Mrs. Marguerite Zepp, 11 Prospect Square, was treated in Memorial hospital Saturday after she mistakenly drank household ammonia for a mouthwash.

John W. Seder, Green Spring, W. Va., was treated in Memorial hospital for lacerations after falling from a Baltimore and Ohio railroad engine.

Col. Henderson Urges Support Of War Effort

Is Principal Speaker at V.F.W.'s Mortgage Burning Celebration

One hundred per cent support of the war effort was urged by Col. George Henderson, of the Internal Security Division, United States Army, in an address here Saturday night at the mortgage burning celebration held by Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Col. Henderson pleaded for development of a home front that will match the war front and said that Americans must realize now that the United States must maintain a tremendous army and navy for many years to come. Some of the dangers at home that must be faced and overcome were outlined by Col. Henderson.

A crowd of approximately 400 persons attended the annual banquet and installation of officers in the Queen City hotel with veterans not only from Maryland but West Virginia and Pennsylvania present. A guest of honor was Mrs. W. R. Hart, mother of Henry Hart, killed in the First World War in whose honor the local VFW post is named.

The decorations were elaborate and were featured by a huge electric lighted V arranged at the far end of the dining room by John G. Kliffner. Beautiful place cards and programs, in patriotic design, were at each place.

A Florian Wilson led the audience in singing songs of the First World War as well as the present one. Martin Flynn and his Society Ramblers played during the banquet and for the dance which followed the program. Thomas K. Whalley, adjutant, presided as toastmaster after James Beach, chairman of the arrangements committee opened the program. The invocation was given by the Rev. J. Fred Zimmerman and William McKenzie, retiring post commander, made the address of welcome with James E. Stemple, new post commander responding.

Officers Are Installed

Man Is Injured When Taxi Upsets On Braddock Road

Driver Is Held without Bond on Careless Driving Charge

One person was injured, not seriously, when the Astor cab in which he was riding overturned on a sharp curve on Braddock road shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

Jack Fletcher, 25, 698 Gephart drive, a passenger in the taxi, was admitted to Memorial hospital for treatment of lacerations of his head and right ear.

Driver of the cab, Cortiz Childress, 109 Polk street, was uninjured but he was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and held in city jail without bond for a hearing in trial magistrate's court today.

Police said Childress told them he was driving toward Cumberland, had descended a hill and was rounding a sharp curve when he was blinded by headlights of an oncoming automobile. The cab, police said, upset and rolled over several times before coming to a stop.

The accident was investigated by Officers D. J. Racey, L. A. Williams and C. C. Roby and the latter said skid marks at the scene measured between twenty-five and thirty yards.

Gasoline Coupons Are Not Transferable

The Office of Defense Transportation announced Saturday that certificates of war necessity and "T" ration gasoline coupons may not be transferred along with titles to trucks or other commercial vehicles. The action may be punished by suspension or revocation of certificates.

The ODT ruled that new operators receiving a motor vehicle through transfer must file an application for CWN immediately upon the transfer. Operators who already hold certificates must apply for revised certificates.

Single unit operators (operators of one or two vehicles) must return certificates to their ODT district offices and must surrender unused "T" coupons to their local War Price and Rationing Boards upon transfer. Fleet operators must advise the nearest ODT district office of their action and return the appropriate sub-certificate.

Operators changing their area of operation or substantially changing the nature of their business must inform their local ODT district office of such changes. Changes of address should also be reported promptly. Failure to comply with these rules, ODT stated, may result in reduction of gasoline allotments or possible suspension of certificates.

Howard E. Chaney Red Cross War Dies at His Home Fund in County Following Fall Totals $59,238

Operator of Cigar Store Was Supporter of Local Baseball Teams Chapter Chairman Makes Final Report on Success of Local Campaign

Howard E. Chaney, 60, 17 Fourth street, operator of Chaney's Cigar Store, Centre and Frederick streets, died at his home at 7:15 a. m. Saturday following a fall in which he was burned two weeks ago.

Although Mr. Chaney had been in failing health for about two years, the fall and burns hastened his death. He tripped over a rug in the bathroom at his home and fell against a gas heater. He had been bedfast since the fall.

A native of Frederick county, Mr. Chaney was a son of the late John and Fannie Korn Chaney and came to Cumberland when he was about six years old. While still in his teens Mr. Chaney was a jockey and rode on many tracks in several states as well as on the old race track here, at Frostburg and at Meyersdale, Pa. He was a close friend of "Bud" Stotler, now with the Wynn Vandyke stable. He gave up riding while still a young man.

Director of Clubs
Mr. Chaney also was an avid baseball fan and was a director of the Cumberland team in the old Blue Ridge League that closed in 1917 during the First World War. He later was a director of the Cumberland Colts in the Middle Atlantic League.

Shortly after he gave up racing Mr. Chaney went into business for himself and thirty-four years ago opened a news stand and bowling and billiard parlor on Virginia avenue. Since 1923 he operated the cigar store opposite the city hall.

Although he was interested in politics, Mr. Chaney only once sought public office. He made an unsuccessful campaign for the city council ten years ago. He was a Democrat.

Mr. Chaney was a member of the Episcopal church, Cumberland Lodge, No. 63, B. P. O. Elks; Cumberland. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Seder Service Will Usher In Oldest Jewish Holiday

Eight Day Celebration of Festival of Passover Begins Today

Passover, the oldest holiday in the Jewish calendar, will be ushered in at the B'er Chayim temple tonight at 7:30 o'clock with a Seder service which will be conducted in the vestry.

Rabbi Aaron H. Lefkowitz will conduct the Temple Seder with Miss Rita Milenkoff at the piano and Mrs. Lefkowitz as soloist. In charge of arrangements for the service are: Milton Beneman, Mrs. B. Beneman, Mrs. Louis Bernstein, Mrs. Robert Dingfelder, Mrs. George Kline, Mrs. Lee Lichtenstein and Mrs. Max Spear.

The Festival of the Passover commemorates the deliverance of the Jews from the oppression of the pharaohs and their entrance into the Promised Land. When Jerusalem was the religious center of Judaism, the Passover was celebrated in the Temple. It was one of the three pilgrim festivals, during which people came from all parts of Palestine to share in the holiday which marked the sowing of the crops. Since the destruction of the Temple, the Passover has become a home festival.

At the home service, known as the Seder, the story of the deliverance is read each year. The eating of unleavened bread, or Matso, connected with the festival, is a symbol of the haste with which the Jews left Egypt. Tradition holds that there was no time to wait for the bread-dough to rise.

The holiday is celebrated for seven days by Reform Jews and for eight days by the Orthodox Jews. The latter also hold services on the second and eighth days.

Besides the Seder service, Passover services will be held here on Tuesday, April 20, 10 a. m., with Rabbi Lefkowitz preaching on the theme, "Let My People Go!" and on Wednesday, April 21, at 9:45 a. m., when he will deliver a special Passover-Easter broadcast on "Elijah and Jesus," a study of two saints in Biblical history.

Services Sunday evening, April 25, and Monday morning, April 26 will conclude the Festival of the Passover. The Rabbi will be the speaker at both these services.

Pvt. Earl K. Wilson Is Being Trained In Battle Tactics

Before the war all his shooting was at "upland game," but now Pvt. Earl K. Wilson, 539 Central avenue, is hunting bigger game. He is stationed with an infantry unit somewhere in England, undergoing rigorous training in battle tactics.

The general meeting of the Allegheny County Teachers Association Saturday morning, a motion was passed in accordance with the recommendation from the state office cancelling the general October meeting. The body also went on record as favoring the adoption of resolutions of appreciation to individuals who were in a large measure responsible for the passage of legislation beneficial to the recent salary campaign.

Attorney-General Urges Everyone To Buy War Bonds

William C. Walsh Makes Appeal in Behalf of Second Victory Fund Drive

Calling attention to the Second War Loan campaign in which Allegheny county citizens have been asked to invest over two million dollars this month, Attorney-General William C. Walsh, in a radio appeal last evening, stressed the importance of putting idle and extra money to work to help win the war.

"In the last bond drive," Walsh explained, "an effort was made to get everyone to invest ten per cent of his or her income in victory bonds and everyone who can should do it. Those who can invest more should do so. However, it is impossible to fix the amount which each individual should invest because the obligations and circumstances of individuals vary. The man who is in debt may not be able to invest anything, but such a person should use his surplus income to pay off his debts."

Safeguard for Future
"The head of a large family may find it difficult to invest very much, but he should invest whatever amount he can, both as a patriotic duty and as a safeguard for his family in the future. On the other hand, there are millions in the country and thousands in this county who owe no debts and who have few, if any other obligations. Such persons should invest every dollar they can possibly spare."

"Our quota is about two and a quarter million dollars," the attorney-general continued. "This sounds like a lot of money, but the money is here. I do not know the actual income of the citizens of this county, but the yearly income of the citizens of Cumberland is estimated at thirty-three billion dollars. At this time, the county income is certainly in excess of fifty million dollars a year."

Should Meet Quota
"If we all invest ten per cent of our income in war bonds it would amount to more than five million dollars a year, or more than twice our present quota. There will be other victory bond drives later in the year, and our total quota may exceed ten per cent of the total county income, but whether or not this happens, it certainly seems clear that we should be able to meet this first quota which represents less than five percent of the county income. To meet this month's quota, it will be necessary for everyone who has any money to buy bonds."

The committees represented Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion and Celanese Local No. 1874, Textile Workers Union of America. The meeting was held at the VFW home.

David W. Sloan was elected chairman of the group, with William Meagher, vice-chairman and Samuel A. Graham secretary. Invitations have been extended to Rubber Workers Local No. 26, Shopcraft unions of the Railroad Brotherhoods, Allegheny Trades Council and the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council to participate. A second meeting will be held at the VFW home, May 2 at 3 p. m.

A spokesman for the group explained that the VFW and Legion are on record opposing blanket deferments and deferments of unlimited time. He said, "Each time a man is deferred from military service, it becomes necessary to call some other individual in his place. If there were no deferments, it might not be necessary to call fathers into service and break up homes."

The committee hopes to bring enough interest to the matter to eliminate the idea of deferments and to give publicity to each one whether requested by the employer or the individual, Sloan explained.
